On or around 17 Oct. 2003, al-Qaeda's Sahab Institute for Media Production released a new produced video entitled "The Wills of the Heroes: The Martyrs of the Two Holy Places". The video is 00:45:19 in length. It focuses on the 12/13 May 2003 attacks that occurred in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. All images in this report are of stills from the actual video. This is the sixth al-Qaeda video by Sahab and the second one to be released in the past 40 days.

The video contains a statement by Sheikh Abu Omar Mohammed al-Saif and four martyrdom tapes from participants in the Riyadh attack. Two of the martyrdom statements contain threats/addresses in English. This is the first time an English address has ever been made by an al-Qaeda member in a video or audio tape released by the group. The martyrdom videos were shot with the speaker and a Kalishnikov in front of a blue screen. The graphics were added later. The four martyrdom tapes are not played straight through but rather interspersed with each other.

Osama bin Laden appears briefly at the end of the video. The video of Osama bin Laden appears to be new in the sense that we do not believe it has appeared in any other previous videos. The comments Osama bin Laden makes are of a generic nature and do not provide any kind of indication as to when the video of him was made.

The video also contains a roughly 7-8 minute audio recording of the Riyadh attacks as they were occurring. Analysis of this portion of the tape is ongoing.

ASHRAF BIN IBRAHIM AL-SAYD

- Al-Sayd sends a message to Osama bin Laden, who taught them what it means to be righteous and faithful and what it means to sacrifice for Islam. Then says he cannot forget Mullah Omar or Dr. Ayman al-Zawahiri or Sulaiman Abu Ghaith. He thanks all four.
- During part of al-Sayd's message he says: I tell all those who listen to my call and my message that when I decided to take up this hope, I was sure of its consistency with Shariah and of the fact that it is my duty. It was not done as an escape from reality or out of over zealotry as is alleged by some ignorant people. When I did it I was convinced
